PHILLIPS LYTLE PARTNER JONATHAN P. TABER TO PARTICIPATE IN EXPORT NOW! TRADE SERIES

JAMESTOWN, NY – Jonathan P. Taber, a partner with Phillips Lytle LLP, one of the region's best known law firms, will present at the upcoming Export Now! Trade Series on October 28 in Olean, NY. He will speak on international legal issues associated with exporting products.

Presented by U.S. Department of Commerce, World Trade Center Buffalo Niagara and Upstate New York District Export Council, the seminar will provide businesses with assistance in determining the best markets for products, finding qualified foreign partners, securing payment from foreign customers and getting the product to its final destination.

At Phillips Lytle, Mr. Taber practices in the areas of international and domestic business transactions, corporations, mergers, and acquisitions, real estate and finance. He also has significant experience counseling clients in the oil and gas industry, as well as in telecommunications law and land use planning. Mr. Taber received his J.D. from Cornell Law School and his B.S. from Cornell University. He serves on the board of directors for the Chautauqua Region Community Foundation and also on the board of the Gebbie Foundation, Inc.

Phillips Lytle LLP, one of the region's best known law firms, is celebrating its 175th anniversary in 2009. The firm has seven offices across New York State in Buffalo, Albany, Chautauqua, Garden City, New York City and Rochester. With the farthest geographic reach of any law firm in the state of New York, Phillips Lytle is well equipped to meet the needs of their clients.
